The Weatherfords will share selections from their book of poetry KIN: Rooted in Hope. The event is on Wednesday, February 26 at 6 pm.

WELCOME JOAN!

Joan Ruelle arrives as the new Dean of Libraries and Instructional Resources. After a national search, Ruelle joins the flock ready to strengthen SU's libraries and cultural spaces, amplifying their impact across campus. We're so excited to have her here!

LEISURE COLLECTION

Located in the Pit, the Leisure Reading Collection provides current fiction and non-fiction books for the campus community to read as a fun break from work and assignments.

Technology Checkouts

You can check out many types of devices from the SU Libraries. We have Windows laptops, Chromebooks, headphones (regular and noise-cancelling), charging kits, calculators, HDMI adapters, umbrellas, external DVD players, and more! Additionally, the MakerLab provides iPads and iPad accessories for checkout. These essential tools support your academic success and digital equity without you having to purchase them, and they help us extend our library impact. We love hearing what types of devices you'd like us to look into acquiring next. To check out these devices, bring your GullCard to the Library Service Desk on the first floor of the GAC.

Creando Puentes/ Building Bridges Exhibit

The Organization of Latin American Students (OLAS) celebrates more than 20 years promoting Latin American cultures and communities at Salisbury University through a bilingual exhibition. Featuring photographs, documents, and interviews with alumni, it highlights OLAS's contributions to cultural education, outreach, and diversity, inspiring student engagement with the vibrant community.

Did You Know ...

When not in use, library classrooms double as student study spaces! Check the room schedule on the tablet outside each door to make sure the room is free. Computer lab 162 and collaborative classroom 163 are located on the northwest side of the GAC near the covered walkway and classroom 117 is in the southeast corner next to the MakerLab.
